RISING stars

Abbey Lee
Actress, 29

“IT’S DIFFICULT TO HUSTLE AGAIN BECAUSE I HUSTLED FOR SO LONG”

Four years ago, Melbourne-born Abbey Lee was a model at the top of her game. So why would she trade that in to start again as an actress? The answer might surprise you: because she loves it. “It’s difficult to hustle again, because I hustled for so fucking long,” says Lee. “But it makes me feel alive again.” When Lee does something, she doesn’t do it by halves. Her first film was the most successful Australian movie ever, Mad Max: Fury Road. She’s following that up with The Neon Demon, out this year, and Office Christmas Party – a comedy starring Jennifer Aniston and Jason Bateman, slated for release December 8. “Honestly, it’s pretty terrifying,” she admits. “I’m in a film with an exceptional cast of professional comedians. It’s not – and excuse the pun – it’s not a joke.” Next, she continues her run of exemplary co-stars by starring in The Dark Tower, currently filming in South Africa with Matthew McConaughey and Idris Elba, due to hit screens February 23, 2017. She signed on without having seen a full script. “I’d be an idiot to say no,” she says. “That’s a very highly regarded pair.” And now, with her inclusion, trio.
